Best North-Shore Brunch

Duluthians thought hell was waiting for the lift bridge, but edgy entrepreneur Mitch Omer is now giving them a real taste of the dark side at his new Hell's Kitchen satellite in Canal Park. The food is similar to his downtown Minneapolis mainstay—lemon-ricotta pancakes, huevos rancheros, wild-rice porridge—but the décor is more gothic (black walls, chandeliers), if all in a tongue-stud-in-cheek kind of way. The biggest difference is the massive bar. Who said you couldn't get a drink in hell? 310 S. Lake Ave., Duluth, 218-727-1620
